Puzzling (a) Space

'Puzzling (a) Space' is a site-specific exhibition of painting, installation, video and performance by four contemporary Asian artists: Soun Hong (Korean), Chakraphan Rangaratna (Thai), Ding Ren (Chinese American), and Eric De Leon Zamuco (Filipino). This exhibition is co-curated by Jeong-ok Jeon (Korean) and Jammie Chang (Taiwan), and as a collaborative project, it will bring the dynamic cultural perspectives to the District arts community and increase the cultural exchange between Asia and the US. During the two months exhibition period, numerous public programs are scheduled.

'Puzzling (a) Space' begins with the fundamental notion of "site-specific" art, the notion of which an artwork comes to life within the displaying place and an audience's participation is essential to it. The place is not just a backdrop or a simple space to contain the artworks. Rather, the place conveys the purpose and acts as vehicle for the art. Thus the artwork will only be completed under the participation of the three elements: the artist, the audience, and the place. Through puzzling the space with various media, the exhibition not only reflects the site-specificity of Hillyer Art Space, resonates with the artists' multi-cultural backgrounds, it also creates an atmosphere for people to think out of the boxes.
